point of dollars and cents, it was a poor investment. A stranger from the North or South, had he been here to put money in a factory or to buy a home and send his children to school, would have stepped inside of the nearest doorway, when a fusillade was expected, and promptly resolved to get out of town and stay out. What a spectacle was presented! Crowds of men, many of them leaders in church, in society and in large affairs, faced each other earnestly and expectantly for an hour or two at the corner of Madison and Main. They looked ugly and determined and were drawn up almost in a line of battle, and only needed a leader or some one to fire a shot to bring on a riot that would have drenched the streets with blood and draped many homes in mourning. No one took the aggressive, however favorable the opportunity, and after a few hours the excitement abated and the police were left in a peaceful possession of the ground. Still, there is no doubt that many men on both sides were a-mad to the teeth and ready for bloody work if the signal had been given.

As everybody knows, this disgraceful wrangle dates back directly to the old Hadden and anti-Hadden municipal fight, which has been kept alive in some form or other by the unseemly circus in the bull-pen on down to the present. This has estranged friends and turned them into life-time enemies; it has impaired business, inflamed the worst passions of men, demoralized the community and made Memphis the laughing stock of other cities, and a place to be shunned by strangers. There was a time—and not many years ago—when men were held personally responsible for epithets applied to gentlemen through the press. It is not so many years since a leading editor in this city was censored on the street by a prominent lawyer for having, as was thought, gone beyond the metes and bounds of legitimate journalism. This cleared the air for a time, but it has become as foul since as the mackerel that stinks by moonlight, and the Police Gazette, intimidated as it is by the post-office authorities, is choice family reading compared to the superlativity of rot that is sometimes dashed out to the readers of Memphis papers. This is a terrible education for young people whose characters are at the pliable and formative period, and it is absolutely immoral, debauching and criminal.

Now, if any man has a grievance, a grudge or a streak of egotism in him too big to conceal or to carry alone, why don't he fight it out and get the matter off his mind without boring a patient public to death with his insane conceits and affected importance. It is not far to the woods of Arkansas, and an occasional fight over there, especially if fought in earnest and to kill, as Brizzolari and George Pethan fought would be infinitely better for the moral and social atmosphere than the billingsgate so often dumped at the doors of decent people. The man who is earnestly seeking a fight, whether to vindicate his honor or to resent a real or fancied insult, will not send a brass band in advance. We have noticed that such men, if they are respected about it, nearly always get accommodated. It altogether depends upon a man's sincerity. We do not think well of dueling, but when that manner of settling differences prevailed among gentlemen, it made them particular as to what they said about each other, and there was but little offensive and no vulgar personal journalism of those days. Personal affairs were not dragged through the columns of the press, nor soiled knee hung out on the front fence.—Memphis Public Ledger.

PHLEBOTOMY THE CURE.

When two men "have it in" for each other and the gunge of battle has been thrown down and they make ready to leave town to settle their quarrel in the old-time Southern way, it is best to give them all the opportunity they want. The Scimitar is for peace, and hopes to see the millennium, but it thinks there are times when phlebotomy is the only cure for superheated blood.—Memphis Scimitar.

STATE NEWS.

According to rumors generally current on last Saturday and Sunday, it seemed that Nashville had suffered another bank failure; but the rumor proved not to be founded in fact. The Capital City bank, concerning which the report was circulated, did not suspend, but simply went into liquidation. That is, the officials finding that the business was not sufficiently profitable, determined to wind up its affairs, and with a view to doing so, deposited enough money with the Fourth National bank to pay off all depositors and then proceeded to close up its business. It was no failure and no depositor loses a cent by it.

Ulysses Morris, aged 17, was drowned at Knoxville last week while bathing. The body was recovered. He went in the pond against the pleadings of his mother. His father is an invalid and an ex-federal soldier.

Quite a sensation was created in the vicinity of Yell, Marshall County, a few days ago, says a correspondent of the Petersburg Gazette. While a 16-month-old child of Mr. M. B. Bivins was in the front yard playing, a very large bald eagle picked it up and carried it about three-quarters of a mile. The screams of the child and those of its mother could be heard for some distance. The bird alighted near where Mr. B. E. Coleman was hunting, and he killed it. This seems to have been a providential offer for the terror-stricken child and mother. The bird measured 7 1/2 feet from tip to tip and weighed 40 pounds. This is the second one of these eagles that has been killed in this vicinity this year. The first was killed by Mr. Bruce Collins. Mr. Bivins is going to send the claws and wings of this one, together with the history of the event of its killing to the World's Fair. The child was not seriously hurt, being only slightly bruised on one side and arm by the bird's claws while carrying it.

By the death of his uncle, Isaac Moman, of Pinecastle, Virginia, who died a short time ago at the age of 109 years, Dr. George Williams, of Davidson County, has inherited a fortune, said to consist of stocks and bonds to the amount of $2,500,000. Dr. Williams' sister writes him that the entire amount has been bequeathed to him and to her, and that she would come here about July 1. Dr. Williams is a member of the Circuit Court jury and has four children, all married. Mr. Moman had four sisters, who lived to be respectively 92, 95, 97 and 99 years of age. He was the last of the family, and his only relatives are Dr. Williams and his sister.

Near Milan, Tenn., Joseph Williams, colored, while riving boards lately, found in the center of a white oak log four feet in diameter a wooden peg which had evidently been driven into the tree over sixty years ago. It was perfectly sound. Old settlers say the people living here in those times would celebrate Christmas by boring holes in trees, load them with powder, place a fuse and plug the holes with wooden pegs. It is thought this was placed there for that purpose but failed to explode. The wood had grown over it and the layers indicated that it had been there sixty years.

On Sunday morning a man named George Spencer, 50 years old, made an attempt to criminally assault a little girl only seven years old at Knoxville. He was arrested and taken to the jail, and all day long a great crowd threatened to break into the jail and lynch him. The mob finally dispersed without making an attack.

The Louisville correspondent of the Pulaski Citizen finds a curious fact with reference to death and burial in that locality. "For ten years," says the writer, "more than half the burials occur on Sunday from Louisville and vicinity, deaths occurring on Saturday. Can any of your learned physiologists explain this remarkable coincidence—this interpolation of Providence that the Christian soul's first day in heaven shall be on Sunday?"

Farms and City Property. Timber Lands, Sheep Lands, Mineral Lands, Improved and Unimproved City Property for Sale on Easy Terms.

We Request a Careful Reading of the Subjoined Descriptive List of Farms and City Property; and also Request that Additions may be made thereto by Parties Desiring to Sell.

FARMS.

No. 1.—A farm of 154 acres, located on the Hampshire pike four miles from Columbia, Tenn., three miles from church, three miles from public school; a small residence, barn, running water and scattering timber; the place is sufficiently undulating to afford the best natural drainage. All land tillable and rich. It is so situated as to be in reach of wheat, corn, clover, 50 acres in corn and 100 in clover; there are 100 acres for oats and 100 for corn and clover. This farm yielded last year, 22 bushels of wheat per acre, 30 bushels of corn, 30 barrels of potatoes, and the hay netted $20 per acre, price, $35 per acre.

No. 2.—A farm of 38 acres 3 miles west of Columbia, Tenn. This farm is located on the Hampshire pike, is well improved, soil very rich, and watered by never-failing springs. The improvements are first-class; a very large and comfortable dwelling, a well arranged for a large dairy, with cold water running spring; a butter dairy (30 cows) in operation. 200 acres of this farm is in cultivation; 100 acres in corn, and 100 in clover and hay. The remainder is in grass, such as orchard and other permanent grasses; and garden and woodland. A large frame house is on this place, and two large barns and other necessary outbuildings; a nice fish pond well stocked with fish. This is a splendid country residence and stock farm. Price, $45 per acre.

No. 3.—A farm of 20 acres on the Williamsport road 10 miles from Columbia, Tenn. This farm is located on the Williamsport road, and all of the land is tillable; scattering timber and land inclined to rolling. Improvements are only of a few years. This place is located within half mile of a railway station, where there is a school and church. Price, $3,000.

No. 4.—A tract of 416 acres near Spring Hill, Tenn. This is a first-class tract of land, part of it in cultivation, and some of the part of it in grass for twenty years. It is well watered and fenced with ad. It is a small house and several small outbuildings. This is a very desirable place and very cheap, considering the locality. Price $5 per acre.

No. 5.—A farm of 400 acres 6 miles from Columbia on the Mooreville pike, good soil, in cultivation except a small tract which is in woods. It is well watered and fenced in and is in high state of cultivation and near good and permanent water. Large crops from this place yearly. Price, $5 per acre.

No. 6.—A farm of 140 acres near Zion Church, and 9 miles from Columbia, Tenn. The road leading to this place is a good country road that is well kept up by the people living along its course. This place has upon it a good house and barn, plenty of good stock water, good neighbors, church and school nearby. Price, $30 per acre.

No. 7.—A farm of 80 acres three miles from Columbia on the Mt. Pleasant pike, good soil, two-story house, large barn, plenty of stock water and fruit trees. The land is first-class and in high state of cultivation. A heavy crop of wheat was grown from this place last year. Price, $5 per acre.

No. 8.—A farm of 150 acres situated on the Franklin pike, 8 miles north of Columbia and 1 1/2 miles from Carter's Creek station, and two miles from Clarksville. This is a first-class tract of land, all in cultivation; it is first-class land in every respect, well watered with five never-failing springs. There is a small cottage on this place. The same party owns another place within a few miles of the above, it contains about 400 acres, all well improved, with a splendid farm house and a large barn. Price of both places $55 per acre.

No. 9.—A farm 8 miles from Columbia, on the 14th civil district of Maury County, contains 14 acres, and has a small house of three rooms and kitchen with smoke house. There is a good orchard on the place and all necessary outbuildings. Land in a good state of cultivation. A school and church near this place. A very desirable section. Price, $25.

No. 10.—A farm of 60 acres 8 1/2 miles from Columbia on the Bear Creek pike, all in cultivation, moderately well fenced, well watered with springs, plenty of stock water, and small houses, no barn. The crop of this place last year yielded 40 bushels to the acre, an abundance of clover hay is made every year, and the place is one-half mile from a school and church. Price, $25 per acre.

No. 11.—A farm of 34 acres on the Mooreville pike, two miles from Columbia. No improvements. All of the land is first-class and fresh. This is a good place for a truck garden. Price, $5 per acre.

No. 12.—A farm of 125 acres in the 8th civil district of Maury County, one mile west of the Palm pike. It has upon it two cabins and a good barn, never-failing running water, two large ponds and is well fenced. Half of this place is in cultivation, balance in blue-grass. Price, $25 per acre.

No. 13.—A farm of 125 acres, more or less, situated in the 21st civil district of Maury County, one mile south of the Bear Creek pike and near Mt. Olivet and Hickman churches, and is known as the Esh Davis place. Half of this place is in cultivation and the remainder in timber and grass. Price, $15 per acre.
